WE CRAFT STORIES,
BUILD ADVENTURES,
AND CREATE JOURNEYS.

At Gladiator, we believe the future is built by looking back - honoring what made us who we are today.

We were born in a workshop, surrounded by materials, machines, and skilled hands that understood the art of crafting luggage with soul.

And while the world of travel has evolved, that essence continues to guide every step we take.

OCEAN

SAIL, RUN AND FLY

Ocean is made of high-quality polypropylene: light-weight, super resistant and flexible. The best qualities to make your suitcase the best travel companion: lightness helps to load the suitcase and handle it comfortably, the flexibility of the material absorbs the possible shocks of the trip and the polypropylene gives it a great resistance.

Water dropwave engraving is a homage design to the oceans that make up most of the earth's surface. In addition, these waves provide greater resistance to scratches. The inverted zipper prevents the entering of water in case of rain, and it's also more effective in the face of possible theft attempts. The wheels are incredibly quiet and sturdy, well-designed and very compact giving great stability and easy-roll.

Oceans are the heart of our planet. Take an Ocean and discover the world!

SAVINA PAÜL

THE PILOT WHO TURNS EVERY FLIGHT
INTO A STORY WORTH TELLING

Savina Paül doesn't just fly planes. She flies ideas, breaks inertia, and elevates conversations. At 30, this Catalan commercial pilot has become a symbol of a new generation of travelers: curious, conscious, with one foot in the sky and the other on the ground. She's the kind of person who moves to the rhythm of altitude, calm in the knowledge that control doesn't mean avoiding turbulence - it's learning to flow with it.

Her story didn't begin in a cockpit, but on an ordinary afternoon, when at 16 she told her mother she wanted to be a pilot. She didn't speak of it as an impossible dream, but as a decision. Since then, Savina hasn't stopped looking upward.

Today, she pilots an Airbus A330 and, between flights, has become a fresh voice in aviation. She speaks without jargon, without pretension, with a natural ease that disarms. "Turbulence isn't dangerous, just uncomfortable," she says with a smile. In that tone - half calm, half wisdom - she makes anyone feel a little safer at 36,000 feet.

[...] at 16, she told her mother she wanted to be a pilot. She didn't frame it as an impossible dream, but as a decision. From that moment on, Savina hasn't stopped looking upward.

Behind the uniform is a woman who lives life on her own terms. She stays active, nurtures her mind, and when she's not soaring above continents, she explores new cities with the same curiosity she applies to mapping a new flight route. Her inseparable companion: a Gladiator suitcase, sturdy yet light, traveling with her for work and pleasure alike. "I've learned to live with less, but with the essentials. My bag always has a book, headphones, and some comfortable clothes. Everything else is extra," she says, smiling as someone who knows the best journeys aren't planned - they're lived.

Savina literally lives among suitcases, terminals, and airports - but always with her own style. And here's where it gets interesting: a Gladiator suitcase follows her on both business flights and spontaneous getaways. "If I travel 900 hours a year, I need something that won't fail me mid-connection in Doha," she jokes. And she adds, "A pilot recommending a suitcase is like a chef recommending a knife – you know they've put their fingers on the line many times."

Being a woman in aviation still carries a hint of rebellion, which Savina accepts without drama. "It's not about proving anything, it's about flying well," she says. But she knows visibility matters. Beyond piloting, she inspires those dreaming of careers that still seem reserved for others. Her social media presence balances authenticity, discipline, and lifestyle – not instructive, not aspirational – simply real.

When asked what it feels like to fly, she doesn't speak of engines or maneuvers, but "Suddenly, you watch the sunrise over the Atlantic and realize that some things can't be explained – they can only be experienced."

of sensations. "It's a mix of calm and vertigo. Suddenly, you watch the sunrise over the Atlantic and realize some things can't be explained – they can only be lived." That is Savina: technical yet poetic, disciplined yet free.

Her life moves between airports and sunsets, cockpits and charming cafés. But what defines her most is how she inhabits the journey. For Savina Paul, flying isn't just a job – it's her way of being in the world: light, elegant, and with her gaze always fixed on the horizon.

VÍCTOR LUQUE

THE MENTALIST WHO THINKS LIKE A FALCON AND TRAVELS WITH ELEGANCE

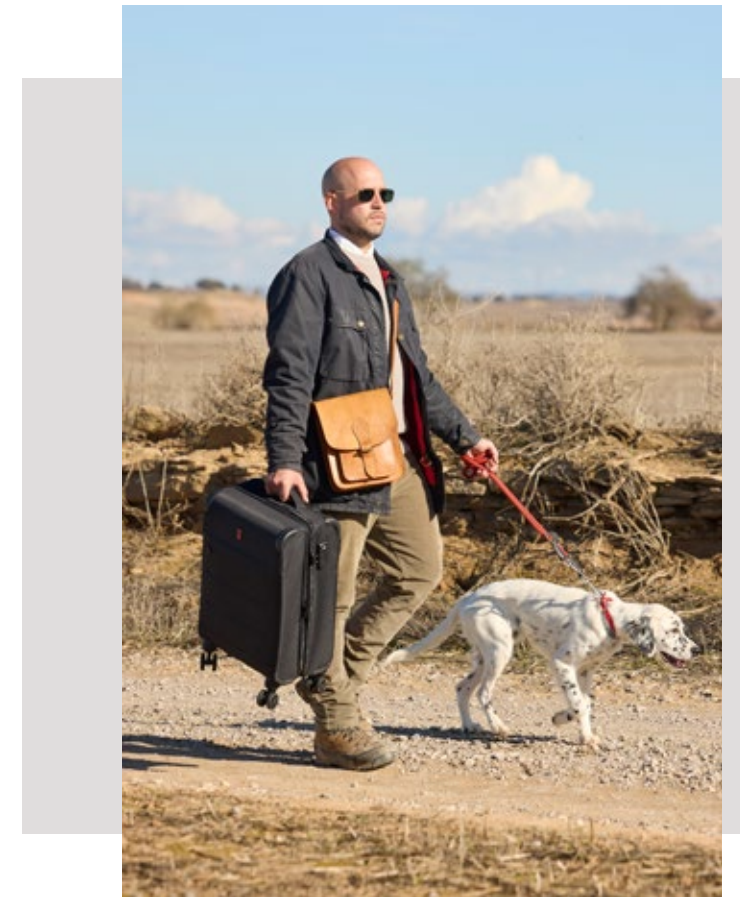

There's a particular calm in the way Victor Luque moves – that precise stillness that comes just before flight. A mentalist and falconer, he masters two arts that share the same essence: absolute observation, finely tuned instinct, and a quiet elegance.

On stage, Víctor is Spain's most acclaimed and highest-grossing mentalist, with the country's most-watched show. He doesn't perform tricks – he creates experiences that awaken the audience's intuition. His presence doesn't deceive: it guides. "The most powerful thing isn't what you see – he says – it's what you discover when you allow yourself to look."

Offstage, Víctor practices falconry in its purest form: the ancestral art of hunting with falcons. It's not entertainment or display; it's a disciplined partnership between man and bird. His passion is clear: hunting red partridge, the noblest and most demanding challenge of this tradition. There, in that tense and perfect moment when the falcon dives, he finds a truth no words can capture.

That aesthetic – precise, honest, unadorned – also defines his approach to the objects he chooses. That's why he travels with a Gladiator Helios suitcase, a premium nylon piece that combines structure, lightness, and a quiet presence reminiscent of a resting falcon. "Helios has that serenity before flight," he notes – and he means it.

Helios is a soft-sided suitcase designed to open in two equal halves, just like a hard-shell suitcase.

And, of course, there's always room for his mentalist humor: "I don't need to open a suitcase to know what's inside. That's what airports are for... though honestly, I think I do it with a lot more style."

Victor Luque is, in essence, a balance of sharp mind and free flight.

A man of stage and field. Of noble falcons, red partridges, and Helios suitcases.

Where others seek spectacle, he seeks poetry in the experience.

And, almost always, he finds it.

"I don't need to open a suitcase to know what's inside."

POLAR

EXTREME ADVENTURE

Polar bears spend most of their lives on the sea ice of the Arctic Ocean.

A backpack trolley and a bag with wheels with measurements suitable for cabin luggage, a bag with wheels of greater capacity, a large bag and another with the right size to carry as hand luggage on low-cost companies such as Vueling.

A whole collection at the service of the most intrepid traveler. Polar is practical and urban, wild and confident. Made with a waterproof material, it allows you to transport your belongings safely and comfortably. Like polar bears that have a thick layer of body fat, a waterproof coating insulates them from air and cold water.

You can take it on a trip to the highest mountain or for a walk through the city.

Polar is inspired by adventure.

LOOKING TO OUR ORIGINS TO MOVE FORWARD

Today, we revive that spirit - of those who didn't just design, but shaped their ideas with precision, passion, and craft. Because only those who have experienced manufacturing from the inside understand that true innovation isn't about inventing from scratch, but perfecting what you already know how to do better than anyone else.

That experience, accumulated over generations, is what drives us today to reinterpret our origins. We reaffirm the values that have always guided us - quality, durability, attention to detail - with our focus on today's traveler: more conscious, more demanding, and more free.

At Gladiator, tradition and technology go hand in hand. We create with the precision of machines and the sensitivity of craftsmanship. Because we know that a great suitcase isn't just designed - it's felt, refined, and worked on until it reaches perfection.

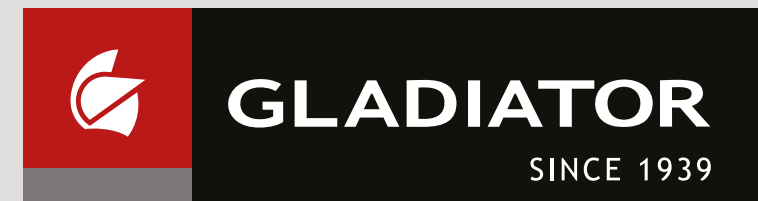

From the Mediterranean to the world, we follow the same purpose that guided us in 1939, because we believe that traveling begins long before you step onto a plane.

Travel begins the moment you choose a suitcase built to last, one that carries your stories.

At Gladiator, we make luggage.

At Gladiator, the journey starts here.
